Exercise 8: Bootstrap 5 - Coffee Party

A first prototype for the company page

You have been commissioned by an innovative young company whose core process is to deliver coffee and coffee machines to other companies. They also organize a very popular coffee party event that both private individuals and companies can order. At the coffee party, a variety of coffees are presented, which they get to taste together with dark chocolate and are given the opportunity to buy the products.

You must create a website with three pages: "Index", "Products" and "About Us"

For all pages (3): • A suitable and uniform color theme • Header; with logo or company name (or both). • Hubbar; with links to all pages
• Footer; with copyright date and webmaster

Index:
• Divided into four main divas • Who are we? • What do we do? • Why
us? • Coffee
party, that's how it works! • Its pages must contain filler texts (Lorem Ipsum) and placeholder images. A quick google search gives good images for a prototype, but if you're short on time or looking for very specific sizes, placehold.it a handy tip.

Products:
• Separate coffee parties and coffee machines. •
List of coffee machines, different models with text and image. • The layout should be divided into two parts.
• Coffee machines
ÿ Lists coffee machines in a grid ÿ
Information, model and price are clearly visible •
Coffee party ÿ
Divided into two parts: Companies and Individuals About us/
Contact: • Contains
more information about the company. • Contact details with photo, phone number, name and email for CEO • Contact details with photo, phone number, name and email for HR manager

The page should work just as well on mobile as on a regular computer.
This exercise is deliberately left quite open and is intended as an opportunity to experiment a bit and test different parts of bootstrap.

Good luck!
